

FOUR GUNMEN PAY PENALTY THIS MORNING

Executed at 6.23.--Given Morphine on the Way to Death Chair.--
Each Protest Innocence
During Last Hours

Sing Sing, N. Y., April 13.—The last of the four gunmen paid the death penalty at 6.23 this morning.

Frank Girelli (Dago Frank), Jacob Seldeneier (Whitey) Lewis, Harry Horowitz (Gyp the Blood), and Louis Rosenberg (Lefty Louie), shortly after sunrise today, marched in the order given through the little green door leading to the death chamber and paid with their lives the penalty exacted by the state for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler on July 16, 1912.

All four went to their doom with stoic fortitude, although there had been indications of a breakdown during the night. Small injections of morphine administered by the prison physician for the purpose of lessening the resistance of the electric current probably had the effect of partially stupefying the condemned men, although they were able to respond to the prayers of Fr. Cashin and rabbis Goldstein and Kopfstein, who marched with them from the cells to the death chamber.

The last hours of the condemned men were passed in restless, fitful slumber. Up till midnight all four divided their time between prayer and protestations of innocence. "Whitey Lewis," who had shaken off the stolidness that had marked him since his arrest two years ago, appeared to be the strongest figure of the quartet, and managed by the force of his example to keep up the flagging spirits of his associates.

"I am going off an innocent man," he repeated continually.

"Dago Frank lay most of the night in a semi stupor, answering in a dazed way whatever questions were put to him from time to time.

"Gyp the Blood" spent the early part of the night lying on his bed staring at the bars of the door of his cell. "Lefty Louie" formerly the most talkative of the four, became the most reserved, sitting for hours at a time on the edge of his bed, with his head in his hands. "It's all right, Whitey," he exclaimed after one of his companion's outbursts. "We done all we could. What's the use of talking? It won't get us nothing. Let's think of other things."

The execution took place in spite of an attempt to put the electric chair out of commission. The dynamo connected with the electric chair was pounded to pieces by blows with a hammer early or late Sunday night. If the damage had not been detected a postponement of the execution would have been necessary. A prison employee is under suspicion and an investigation is being carried on by Warden Clancy. The dynamo was hurriedly repaired and then successfully tested.

VERY PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Ward—Philbrick Nuptials on Sunday Morning at Bride's Home.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Philbrick of 495 Union street on Sunday morning occurred the marriage of their only daughter Blanche M. Philbrick to Ernest M. Ward of Kittery, Me.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Percy Warren Caswell, pastor of the Court Street Christian church. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The bride was attractively gowned in hand embroidered chiffon and was unattended.

The gifts were many and varied, including gold, silver and glass.

After a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Ward will reside at the new home recently purchased and furnished for their occupancy at 499 Union street.

The groom is the genial and popular foreman of the J. O. Seacrest Co., and the bride has for several years been employed as bookkeeper and secretary in this city.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Ward wish them happiness in their new life.

Flag Pole Brown from Rockingham Hotel Narrowly Missing Woman and Child--Auto Party Injured at Newington -- Other Damage.

A gale of wind, which prevailed Sunday afternoon and evening did considerable damage about the city and there were one or two narrow escapes from serious injury.

The wind came up during the early afternoon and freshened until it was blowing a gale at four o'clock. The wind was about northwest and it came in squalls, at times blowing from fifty to sixty miles an hour, subsiding before it clouds of dust, especially along the asphalt pavement. The roads which have been in a very muddy condition were dried out by the high wind of Saturday, and Sunday and late in the afternoon there was dust blowing from roads that were hub deep in mud the middle of the week.

The wind caused a cross wire shortly before five o'clock and several blasts were sounded on the alarm, and box of showed upon the indicator in the Central fire station and the alarm bells made a quick run, to find the box closed and no fire.

The wind was the heaviest about 8.30 and at that time one of the large flag poles on the top of the Rockingham Hotel was broken off and came crashing down the five stories of the hotel to the sidewalk. At the time there were several people passing, and but for the timely warning of the crash as the pole was broken off three people would have been injured. A man woman with a child, were passing and when the crash came the man looked up, saw the pole give way and grabbing the child, with a warning yell to the woman, ran to one side and just in time, for the heavy pole struck into the lawn and crashed across the sidewalk with enough force to splinter it from one end to the other. In falling the upper end came down so that it stuck into the lawn and ripped it up as the pole fell over the sidewalk into the street.

At the same time the fence in front of the Larkin house on Middle street was blown over. A large limb was ripped from a tree near the Shubert Inn and for a time blocked the electric road.

About the city there was considerable damage to the trees, and in some places windows were blown in by the wind.

Poles were blown down on both the Rye and Greenland lines, but the damage was slight.

During the height of the gale, four telephone poles, on the Newington line, near the railroad station, were blown down and fell across the road.

An automobile owned in Dover, and to contain Elizabeth McManis, and Mr. Thompson and two ladies, crashed into the wires before the driver noticed them and it ripped off the wire which all of the passengers were more

DEATH CALLS JERRY GOODWIN

Faithful Conductor With 43 Years Service Passes on to His Reward

The death of Conductor Jeremiah Jordan Goodwin at an early hour this morning, following a serious surgical operation, will cause much sorrow in many households. He was one of the most popular employees of the Boston and Maine railroad and was known from Boston to Intervale. His death removes a devoted husband and father and a man who as a citizen was cheerful at all times and a pleasure to be with.

He was a native of Somersworth where he was born 47 years ago. He began his railroad life with the old Portsmouth, Great Falls and Conway railroad, now the Conway branch of the Boston and Maine, on September 2, 1871 as a brakeman. He was promoted to conductor February 19th, 1873 and filled that position in both the freight and passenger service with a most creditable record.

No better man on No man was better known to the traveling public and no employee was more esteemed by the officials than Jerry Goodwin. He was faithful in every performance of his duty and during the 43 years, he caused but little expense to the railroad as the result of accidents or other troubles to the trains in his charge.

His death brings extreme sorrow to every person who enjoyed his acquaintance. Besides his wife, he is survived by one son and a daughter.

WILL COUNT AND CHECK MAIL

The Postoffice department has just received an order, which calls for the counting and checking of all mail matter handled by the Rural Delivery. Each class of mail will be recorded under its own head and weight, postage, number of pieces, etc., will be figured. The increase in labor is very apparent. This order will go in effect April 16 for two months. The department is about to complete a similar checking of the Parcel Post.

HIGH SCHOOL OPENS BASEBALL SEASON

Defeat Amesbury High in Easy Game --Good Material With Proper Coaching.

The high school baseball team opened the season here on Saturday afternoon, with the Amesbury high and won their opening game in a rather easy manner. The day was not ideal for baseball, a high wind sweeping across the playing field, making the work in the outfield uncertain.

The locals have had but little practice under Coach McPheters, but it looks as though he had a good lot of material, especially in the infield. Bruce, who last year played second base, is catching, and this is a decided improvement. Badger, the regular pitcher, is ill, and Massey started in the box, and he held out for five innings, being effective at the start, but weakening, and he was succeeded by Shuttleworth in the fifth, and he pitched a good game. Hutchins at third looks like a good find. He plays the position well and has an eye for the ball. Harrington looks like a permanent fixture at second and Brackett at first. Butler is covering short, and he was evidently nervous in his first game, but he may overcome this. Mulholland and Timmons in the out field look good, as both can bat, and the right field position is uncertain. Taken as a whole it looks as though Coach McPheters should have a winning team.

For the visitors Mayotte started in the box but in the third the locals got to him and he retired after nine runs had been scored.

The grounds were in very fair condition, and rapidly drying.

INTERESTING FIGURES FROM FORTHCOMING BULLETIN

Washington, D. C., April 13.—(Preliminary figures from the forthcoming bulletin pertaining to national and state indebtedness and funds and investments have been given out by Director W. J. Harris, of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce.

The bulletin carries information for the state of New Hampshire, as well as other states and the United States. The data was compiled under the supervision of Mr. John Lee Caulter, expert special agent in charge of the bureau on Wealth, Debt, and Taxation.

The bulletin, which will soon be issued will contain statistics for each year from 1880 to 1913, inclusive, as far as statistics are available, and will also contain details for the year most nearly corresponding to 1880, thus making it possible to show the general movement during a period of over thirty years. The bulletin will show the total debt of the states as well as many details, such as the various classes of outstanding bonds and special debt obligations to public trust funds. It will also show the floating debt and its component parts. Under "Funds and Investments" will be shown separately all the different funds and in each case cash and securities will be shown. The population of the states for each year under consideration will be used, and the per capita debt less sinking fund assets will be given.

An inspection for the tables for New Hampshire in the bulletin soon to be issued shows a generally decreasing bonded indebtedness, amounting to $2,407,000 in 1891; in 1905 it was $394,000, increasing to $1,376,000 in 1912. The bonded debt obligations to public trust funds advanced from $170,000 in 1891 to $695,000 in 1912. The floating debt was small throughout the period, but advanced from $896 in 1891 to $20,000 in 1912.

In the case of funds and investments the securities were subject to marked changes during the period discussed though the general tendency was to increase, $170,000 in 1891 advancing to $1,145,000 in 1912. The cash items changed greatly from year to year; the maximum amount recorded was $82,400 in 1908, while the treasurer reported $569,000 on hand in 1912.

No sinking fund assets, as such, were recorded until 1910, the $50,000 held that year advancing to $165,000 in 1912. The debt less sinking fund assets was the same as the total except for the last three years of the period covered, when the sinking fund assets brought about a slight change.

The decrease in the total debt and the increase in population combined to reduce the per capita indebtedness.

In 1880 the total debt of New Hampshire at the close of the fiscal year, August 31 was $3,030,000; it fell to $382,000 July 1905, but in 1912 it amounted to $2,121,000. The population of the state increased from 317,000 in 1880 to 435,000 in 1912. In 1880 the per capita debt was $10.46; in 1891 it was $5.78; in 1904 it reached the minimum, $2.08; while in 1912 the per capita debt less sinking fund assets amounted to $1.50 in New Hampshire.

In contrast with the state of New Hampshire we find that taking the entire debt less sinking fund assets for the forty-eight states per capita debt, according to the latest report, is $3.52, or 0.98 less than the per capita debt for New Hampshire and the 48 states for the thirty year period, we find the ratio one and one half times greater for New Hampshire than for the 48 states; and 10.46 to $4.50 in New Hampshire.

At the present time about 6.4 per cent of the total population of the United States will be found in the state of New Hampshire, and 66 per cent of the total debt less sinking fund assets is attributed to that state.

BILL OF INTEREST BEING CONSIDERED AT WASHINGTON

Washington, April 12.--Bills designed to prevent collisions at sea and otherwise promote safety were introduced Saturday by Representative Moore of Pennsylvania and Representative Alexander of Missouri, the latter chairman of the House Committee on Merchant Marine. Mr. Moore would add to the international regulations provisions for an answering signal to the signals blown during fog and storm, so as to ascertain position of the ships. Mr. Alexander proposed to amend the law so as to require masters, mates or pilots of all classes of vessels to produce a satisfactory certificate of examination as to color blindness before renewal of his license.

To Buy Embassy Buildings

The diplomatic and consular appropriation bill was reported to the House Saturday from the Committee on Foreign Affairs. Besides the authorized purchase of embassy buildings at Mexico City, Rome and Tokyo, the measure increases the State Department contingent fund by $33,000 so as to increase the rental allowance for the embassies at London, Paris, Berlin and St. Petersburg, to $15,000; and at Rome, Madrid and Vienna to $10,000. The bill carries $50,000 for the international congress of alcoholism at Washington next year, and authorizes the President to invite foreign countries to send delegates.

Fisheries Exposition in France

The House Foreign Affairs Committee

had before it Saturday a message from President Wilson asking Congress to determine whether it will authorize acceptance of the French Government's invitation to be represented by a delegate to the International Exhibition on Sea Fisheries Industries at Boulogne-sur-Mer, June 15 to Oct. 1 next.

Mr. Shah to Meet President Monday. Secretary Bryan has arranged to present the new Chinese minister, Kai Fu Shah, to President Wilson either next Monday or Tuesday. The new envoy has already called at the State Department and paid his respects to Mr. Bryan informally.

Pure Food Clearing House

A clearing house for pure food and drug information collected by the Federal and state governments has been established in the Department of Agriculture. Announcement was made Saturday of the temporary appointment of Dr. J. M. Abbott, formerly of the Texas Food Commission, as head of the new department. As soon as Dr. Abbott takes a civil service examination his appointment is expected to be made permanent. The new work has been taken up in fulfillment of a suggestion made last November by Dr. Alsberg, chief of the Bureau of Chemistry, at a conference here of state food and drug commissioners during which it was brought out that there was much duplication of work by the states and the Federal Government in making tests and other food and drug work. Lack of conformity in enforcement of pure food and drug laws has caused the Federal Government much trouble. Dr. Abbott is a graduate of Chicago University, was formerly connected with the Northwestern University Medical College and was a chemist on the referee board of the Texas Seed Crushers' Association. He already has taken up his work here.

Many prominent lawyers and diplomats have agreed to appear next week before the Senate Canals Committee to speak on the repeal of the Panama tolls exemption. Joseph Choate, former ambassador to England, who aided in negotiating the Hay-Pauncefote treaty; Henry White who participated in the negotiations in charge of the embassy in London; Oscar S. Strauss, Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, president of the University of California; Horace White, Frederick N. Judson of St. Louis; Frederick W. Lehmann, former collector general, George L. Record of Jersey City; H. G. Herget, president of the Manufacturers' Association of Chicago, and William Reed of Chicago, are among the number.

COST BULGARIA HALF MILLION

War Also Took From Nation Seven 55,000 and 58,000 Men, Seven Per Cent of Entire Male Population.

Sofia, April 12.--Professor Frankoff has figured out the cost of the Balkan War to Bulgaria. The total credits voted amounted to $62,000,000. The requisitions for horses, supplies and other necessities are estimated to have cost $20,000,000. The deficit in the revenues of the country owing to the hostilities amounted to $10,000,000. Munitions and transport cost $30,000,000. The expenses of taking strategic railways and other miscellaneous expenses are placed at $30,000,000. Pensions for soldiers incapacitated will require the capital sum of $50,000,000. The value of the territory ceded to Rumania is placed at $300,000,000. The grand total is thus $348,000,000. The number of lives lost was between 55,000 and 58,000 or between six and seven per cent of the adult male population of the country.

AT WENTWORTH HOME

Mr. Prentis Allen with Miss Flora Dimick, at the piano, favored the people at the Mark H. Wentworth home on Sunday afternoon with one of his pleasing entertainments of song and readings. The principal song was the "Hosanna," which with the fine accompaniment of Miss Dimick, was indeed delightful. Amongst his readings was an original Easter versification prepared for the occasion by Mrs. Nellie M. Fletcher.

Oh! glorious Easter morning!
Let every heart rejoice
The Christ our Lord is risen,
Even hills and rocks rejoice.

Oh! fairest Easter morning!
Thou harbinger of Spring!
All earth with green is springing,
And hills with echoes ring!

Now all unite in love and praise,
In holy Easter joy,
With Christ our risen Saviour,
In peace without alloy.

CASTOR OIL IS TASTELESS NOW

A Remarkable Step Forward in Oil Refining

Pure, clear, castor oil without taste or smell, is a recent discovery at the house of Spencer Kellogg & Sons, refiners of vegetable oils.

The Kellogg Mills take away the nauseating taste and remove none of the good properties of castor oil.

As Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil is merely a purified castor oil it works better than the "evil-tasting," evil-smelling dose of the past, and does not upset the stomach. Children take it easily.

Kellogg's Tasteless Castor Oil has been supplied to all druggists and in bulk but in neat 25c and 50c bottles. It is necessary to ask for Kellogg's by name to distinguish it from disguised castor oils, flavored with peppermint and other strong essences. The trademark label bears a green castor leaf, with the signature Kellogg's.

Made only by Spencer Kellogg & Sons Inc., Buffalo, N. Y. oil refiners. For sale by C. W. Bass, Boardman & Norton, P. H. Coleman, William D. Grace, Bond Green, C. B. Philbrick, C. B. Tilden & Company, R. R. Clark, Kittery.

STORIES

A clerk in one of the chief London Courts tells the following suggestive tale:

"I got a bit of a shock one morning when, on calling out the name of 'Francis Robinson' amongst the jurors a lady in court rose and came forward. Judge, Counsel and Spectators stared in wonder.

Question and Answer

"Did you see a woman?" I gasped.
"Of course," replied she tartly.
What did you imagine I was a monkey?"

I had to explain that women were inadmissible for sitting on a jury.

"Then why did you bring me up from St. James?" she inquired. "I have lost my time and money in coming, and all because you folks are so silly that you can't tell a woman from a man!"

She had the pull on us and the sweetest grin I ever saw.

"Pay the lady's fare and excuse her," said Mr. Justice Smith snarlingly.

This was the nearest and safest method as his lordship knew when we caught the girl in that ladies eye.

So I paid her expenses and she left smiling and thanking the Judge profusely. A Judge is usually a capital hand at summing up human nature, especially of the feminine variety.

That Soothing Stimulant

Sir Lauder Brunton some years ago made some interesting researches in regard to the effect of alcohol in health and disease.

Amongst other things, he discovered that the idea that cold may be ward off by means of spirits is nothing but a myth, and gave the case of a party of mountaineers who had to camp for the night at a high altitude.

Some members of the party partook liberally of alcohol before getting into their sleeping bags, others took just a little, while some of the party drank none at all. The following morning, every one of the first group was dead. Those who had taken a little on the previous night woke feeling cold and miserable, whilst those who had left themselves in the hands of Nature awoke feeling refreshed and well though they had been the last to fall asleep. When a stimulant is required owing to either cold or fatigue, a tumbler of milk as hot as can be obtained, is the best thing that can be taken, he tells us.

The learned writer has omitted to state that alcohol in quantity is a powerful narcotic, as well as a temporary stimulant, and as it is well known to Arctic travellers, cold alone causes an intense desire for sleep, which if indulged in, is generally fatal. So the alcohol became under the circumstances as fatal as Laudum or morphine.

Chipper:--"Yes, but you see there's a 'Kenneb Show' in town this afternoon."

Mr. Justice Bucknill

There has probably never sat upon the Bench a more considerate, kindly and humane Judge than Sir Thomas Townshend Bucknill, who has lately retired on account of ill-health. "To plaintiff, defendant, witness and spectator alike," he was always the name of courtesy, possessing the gift of saying pleasant things at all times.

The writer can personally testify to Mr. Justice Bucknill's kindness and courtesy on one occasion, in a case in which plaintiff and defendant betrayed considerable bitterness towards one another. Mr. Justice Bucknill at last bowed forward over his desk and with a kindly expression on his countenance said to the plaintiff:

"I know a great deal more about the law than you do. I have been in the law since 1868 and I can tell you that my experience is that if you can meet your enemy half-way it is much better to do so than to fight to the bitter end, even supposing that you are right."

The plaintiff at once recognized the force of Mr. Justice Bucknill's words, a conference took place between the parties and a satisfactory settlement was arranged.

"A word in season, how good it is!"--Solomon.

Bar and Bench

Very witty and thoroughly characteristic of Justice Bucknill's sense of humor were the remarks this popular Judge once made to a body of law students. "We are all members of what I may call an unpopular profession," he remarked. "You are necessary evils; so is the bar, I am not quite sure about the Bench. But people cannot do without us. If a man in trouble goes to his solicitor at an early date and tells him the truth, he will not regret it."

It is the man who rushes into litigation because he wants to have a go at the other fellow, and who very often loses, who is the one to turn, first on his solicitor, then on his Counsel, and then on the unfortunate Judge."

Judge Bucknill was a great sport, and his entry into the legal profession was really owing to a school fight.

Educated at Westminster School, he was intended for the Army, but he was one of the combatants in a terrible fight which lasted for over an hour, as a result of which he was blinded in one eye. The doctor would pass him for the Army and he thus had to relinquish forever the hope of becoming a soldier.

After a few years spent in business, he read for the Bar and was called in 1868. The first three years he did not earn a guinea, but after that he began to make money in admiralty and commercial cases and was soon in the enjoyment of a large practice.

Golfer and Fisherman

A keen golfer and fisherman as well as followers of the turf and other forms of sport, it is scarcely surprising that Mr. Justice Bucknill has a great love for the athletic life. "The British Empire," he remarked some time ago, "is as great a force as ever, because we love outdoor pursuits, fresh air, and outdoor competition which brings men together and rubs off the rough corners, making them however much they may disagree, understand that there is a moment given them for entertainment and enjoyment, and only those who abuse it are fools. Those who take advantage of it are wise men. I don't know a country," he said, "with the exception possibly of America, that is going to beat ours for sport, for mainly spirit, or for real patriotism, when you cut off the fringe of politics and disagreement. And politics after all, is very much like a game of cricket--whichever side is in, wants to keep the other out."

A VETERAN
PRINTER DEAD

Charles N. Lord, one of the veteran printers of this city, died on Sunday morning at the Portsmouth Hospital after a brief illness with pneumonia. He has been in ill health since the death of his mother some months ago. Mr. Lord was born in this city Sept. 1, 1857, and attended the local schools but he later learned the printing business with the late Oliver M. Knight and he worked with him for many years. Later he was employed at the Chronicle and Herald office and before his last illness he has worked with R. L. Walden. He has worked at various times at the Times and the old Journal.

He was a charter member of the Portsmouth Athletic Club, and a member of Danion Lodge, Knights of Pythias and of Lucania Company, O. E. K. of P.

Lord had a host of friends and he will be greatly missed. He is the last of his family. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

HAVE AGREED ON ONE THING

Washington, April 12.--The members of the Congressional Committee of the National Association declare that New Hampshire ought to be a suffrage state. Both of the Senators and one of the Representatives in Congress are earnest suffrage advocates. In time it is expected that New Hampshire will be won to suffrage, and it is expected whenever the suffrage wave breaks across the Atlantic that the old Granite State will be one of the first to join the procession for equal rights.

New Hampshire people in Washington say that they never knew Senators Gallinger and Hollis to agree on anything until they both voted for suffrage. "I do not recollect," said Senator Hollis, "that either at home or in the Senate that we joined in supporting any proposition, but we are both for woman suffrage."

Senator Gallinger would have spoken at length on the suffrage resolution when it was before the Senate, but he did not want to delay the vote. He emphatically expressed himself as favoring the resolution. Referring to the fact that the legislature had acted adversely in New Hampshire upon woman suffrage, Senator Gallinger said: "Whatever the opinion of the people of my state may be, it is a conviction with me that woman is denied the right to vote simply because men have the power to deny it for that and for no other reason in the world. Hence, when the question comes upon joint resolution as reported from the Committee, I shall cast my vote in favor of it."

Senator Gallinger, during the speech of Senator Borah, brought out an emphatic denial of statements by anti-suffragists that woman suffrage works badly in states where equal suffrage prevails. By questioning Borah the New Hampshire Senator showed that for more than 15 years in Idaho woman suffrage had produced beneficial results. Senator Borah, though opposing on state grounds the amendment then pending, is himself a firm believer in woman suffrage. He will support the Shafroth resolution, known as No. 2.

Congressman Stevens will support woman suffrage whenever an opportunity is offered. "I voted for it in the New Hampshire legislature," he said, "and I will vote for it in Congress. Suffrage is sure to come," he added, which is an encouraging statement to members of the Congressional Committee who have been hearing similar expressions an every hand.

Miss Mary B. Wilson of New Hampshire has been spending several weeks in Washington in the interest of suffrage. She has returned home where she will continue her work for suffrage and other progressive reforms.

The Congressional Committee has been informed that New Hampshire will make a splendid showing in the suffrage demonstration of May 2. Twenty towns are planning to have meetings. There will be indoor meetings and fairs. Plays will be displayed as on a holiday. Clergymen have been asked to preach suffrage sermons. Portsmouth will have a large open-air meeting, with an indoor meeting to follow. Concord, East Andover, Frank lin, Charlestown, Seabrook, Lisbon, Meredith and Manchester will have suffrage fairs.

HUGHES WILL NOT RUN

Dover, N. H. Man Announces That He Does Not Desire Renomination as County Solicitor.

Dover, N. H., April 12.--County Solicitor George F. Hughes said Saturday that he is not a candidate for a third term. The increasing demands of his private practice influenced his partly, he said, in making this decision.

When informed that Solicitor Hughes declared himself out of the race, City Solicitor Albert P. Sherry of this city said, "If Mr. Hughes is not going to run I am."

It is understood that there will be at least one other Republican candidate Sidney P. Stevens, ex-city auditor of Seabrook, who was a candidate four years ago against Hughes, will run this year.

IN MEMORIAM

"O change! O wondrous change! That set the prison bars One moment there, so low, so agonized And now, beyond the stars!"

Toward midnight, on Good Friday, April 10th, after an illness of a few days, Mabel Dawson, one of the sweetest and best of the young girls of this community, passed to the rest of Paradise, leaving behind her a scene of irreparable loss in the heart of her sorrowing mother, and in the home of which she was in large measure, the light and joy.

ELEPHANT 14 FEET TALL

Los Angeles, April 12.--The virtually complete skeleton of a prehistoric elephant, which it is believed roamed the earth thousands of years ago, was found in La Brea fossil fields near here Saturday.

"The animal in life measured more than 16 feet in length," said Frank S. Egmont, director of the Southwest Museum. "It stood 14 feet high and its tusks are 16 feet long."

THE TYPEWRITING MACHINE.

The extent to which typewriting machines are exported from this country will doubtless be surprising to many. The figures show that during the year 1913 more than $11,000,000 worth of the machines were sent abroad, Great Britain being the best customer of the American manufacturers, but more than $1,000,000 worth were sent to Germany, a country which prides itself on knowing how to make things and considers itself as being something of a competitor of the United States in the production of writing machines. The exports to France during the year amounted to nearly $1,000,000 in value, and among other markets reached by the American manufacturers were Mexico, Cuba, Argentine, Brazil, British East Indies and British Oceania.

Typewriting machines have been in such common use for years that they now attract no special attention, unless by their absence. A letter or document of any sort written with pen or pencil is today a curiosity, as practically every one having any writing of consequence to do uses a machine, much to the benefit of the writer and the reader.

For some years after the introduction of the typewriter it was considered a sort of luxury, a good thing for making a clear copy of any writing, but by no means a common necessity. All that has changed and today the typewriter is a prime necessity to all persons having writing to do for themselves or others. It is in use in every office. Many operators have become so speedy that they take dictation directly upon the machine without the use of shorthand. The horrible scrawls that were formerly put out by lawyers, some of which they could not read themselves, are seen no more. Public records are typewritten and practically all writing is now done with the machine, persons who have not learned to use it employing those who can.

The typewriter has three distinct features either one of which alone would make it worth its cost. These are legibility, ease of writing and speed. Combined, these elements make the machine indispensable, as is proven by its use in every business office and every study in the land.

It is consequently gratifying to know that the United States is leading the world in the manufacture of this wonderful modern labor saver, and that in addition to supplying the needs of its modern labor it is sending millions of dollars' worth every year to other nations, which long since learned that "Made in the United States" is a brand of value, whether attached to the article or not.

The sudden motion of a cat so startled a woman who had been unable to speak for 18 months that she regained her voice. And yet in Massachusetts they are talking of taxing cats. Perhaps, however, some of the law makers may think it would have been as well if the cat that effected this remarkable recovery had been taxed out of existence.

If the record for the present month doesn't show some mighty extremes in temperature it will be a wonder. There is nearly always a hot wave some time in April, and the weather for the last few days has made a wide opening for a striking contrast.

It is said that the Chicago policemen are crack revolver shots. It is probable that they will not be often called upon to use the pistol, but a general knowledge of the fact that they know how will not decrease their efficiency.

Lacrosse, Wis., women are in no hurry to procure their provisions by parcel post direct from the farmers. Perhaps one reason is that they can buy eggs in the market for two cents a dozen less than the farmers ask.

President Wilson's cabinet stands four to five in favor of tee-totalism. This is almost as impressive as the "eight to seven" that made Rutherford B. Hayes president of the United States.

Under the "honor" system many Texas convicts are employed on the roads at 50 cents a day. Are there no unions in Texas to complain of this unwarranted competition with "free-labor"?

Massachusetts Sons of Veterans are proud of the fact that they have the secretary of state as their commander. Under such a leadership they should be willing in case of necessity to "barry" arms.

And the women of Chicago didn't down "Bathhouse" John or the saloons. Can it be true that, as some of the anti-suffragists contend, most women will vote just as their husbands do?

The New York grand jury keeps on indicting Siegel and Vogel. In anywhere from three to seven years we may know something about how the cases terminate.

EASTER NOTES GATHERED AT THE CHURCHES

At the Court Street Christian church, Rev. Perry Warren Caswell delivered a fine sermon on "Easter Goodness" in the morning and an eloquent sermon on "The Resurrection Here and Now" in the evening. There was a large gathering at both services to enjoy the especially well arranged musical program.

Miss Sophie Goodwin was the soloist and was greatly enjoyed. The decorations were very fine and consisted of Easter lilies, palms, cut flowers, etc. An especially beautiful lily sent from Manchester by Mr. Elvin S. Newton as a token of love in memory of his mother, who was a member of the Court Street Society, was a feature in the decorating scheme.

At the Unitarian church the beautiful cantata "Death and Life," by Harry Rowe Shelley was rendered by the Unitarian quartette. Rev. Gooding's sermon was very fine and heard by a large congregation. The decorations were very beautiful and included easter lilies, Easter lilies, roses, greens and potted plants. The potted plants were distributed to the children of the Sunday school at the close of the service.

At the People's Baptist church special music was rendered by a large chorus. At eight o'clock there was a special Easter service. The church was decorated with Easter lilies and plants.

At the Universalist church, the decorations of palms, Easter lilies, cut flowers and potted plants were very pretty. At five o'clock the concert by the children was given and was heard by a large congregation. The special Easter music was exceptionally well rendered. Each child was given a potted plant as an Easter gift.

At the Advent Christian church the decorations were in keeping with the occasion. The ladies' quartette rendered some pretty musical numbers at the afternoon service. The male choruses gave the musical program in the evening.

The Pearl Street Free Baptist church observed the day with a very eloquent sermon by the pastor, fitting decorations and special music.

St. John's church was a mass of fragrance, and the altar was loaded with blossoms and greenery. The quartette rendered a fine selection of music. The children's Easter Festival was held at four o'clock and was very pretty.

The services at the North church were well attended. The decorations were beautiful and effective, the music remarkably fine, and the cantata "Easter Eve and Morn," by Frederick Stevenson, was exceptionally well rendered.

At the Middle Street Baptist church there were aptly decorations of lilies, palms and cut flowers. The double quartette was a special feature, and the choir rendered a fine performance. The concert by the primary department was well presented. The church was filled at all the services.

Beautiful decorations, an eloquent sermon and fine music characterized the services at the Methodist Episcopal church.

Especially fine services were held at Christ Church on Easter Sunday. The boys' choir of 35 voices rendered the music. The decorations were elaborate and the music excellent.

The Sacrament of Holy Baptism was administered on Easter Even, (Holy Saturday) at five o'clock. Eighteen were baptized.

At the church of the Immaculate Conception, the altar was a mass of bloom and verdure, formed by the Annunciation lily, cut flowers and palms. Hundreds of lighted tapers added much to the effect of the scene.

The altar decorations were declared the best in many years. The church was filled at all the services and also at the vesper service in the evening.

At the 8:30 mass the children's choir of 100 voices rendered a beautiful musical program. At 10:30 the Senior choir rendered a revised mass of Kalliope. At 7:30 Rossini's Musical Wonders in G was excellently presented. One of the Father's of St. Anselm's College delivered the most eloquent sermon heard in years.

BEQUEATH A BILLION

Demise of Vanderbilt and Others Breaks the Record.

Actor Estate Paid Largest Inheritance Tax Since Enactment of Law With the Sum of $3,150,000—Many Rich Men Die.

New York.—With the death recently of George W. Vanderbilt, George Westinghouse and John L. Cadwalader, officials in the state comptroller's office in this city began a tabulation of the wealth left by the large number of prominent New York men who have died since January 1, 1913. It is estimated that the total amount of wealth passed on to the next generation by the death of these men is more than one billion dollars.

The state comptroller at Albany reports that for the year ending last September the total amount of revenue collected by the state from the inheritance tax was $12,734,236.83. The sum to be collected from estates not yet appraised is believed to be much larger.

Never before in the history of this country, it is said, have so many men of wealth and power died in such a short period. Included in the list are such names as J. Pierpont Morgan, Anthony N. Brady, Benjamin Altman, Charles E. Appleby, George A. Hearn, Henry M. Flagler and Isaac V. Brokaw.

The tax on the Brady estate, paid recently in advance on appraisal to get a discount on the regular percentage, was $2,584,000, which was on an estimated valuation of $75,000,000.

The Morgan estate has paid an advance tax of $2,500,000 on an estimated total valuation of $65,000,000, exclusive of works of art, which have been valued at more than $50,000,000. George W. Vanderbilt is supposed to have left $50,000,000. Attorneys for the estate are working on an estimate of the fortune to be made to the state comptroller.

The largest inheritance tax paid since the enactment of the law was that of $3,150,000 on the $87,000,000 estate of the late Col. John Jacob Astor. Previous to that the estate of John S. Kennedy, valued at $87,000,000, held the record.

Benjamin Altman, George A. Hearn, Isaac V. Brokaw and Isidor Straus, great merchants, are some of the men whose estates are being adjusted by the state comptroller. Mr. Altman left his art works, valued at $10,000,000, to the Metropolitan museum. His total estate is supposed to be worth $30,000,000.

Mr. Hearn, another noted art collector, left an estate of $10,000,000, besides a notable art collection. The estate of Isaac V. Brokaw is estimated at $5,000,000, and a valuation of $4,127,608 was placed on the estate of Isidor Straus. Henry Flagler left an estate of $6,000,000.

Other large estates settled in 1913 are those of D. O. Mills, who left about $10,000,000; Edwin Hawley, valued at $9,740,000; Lewis de la Motte, valued at $4,000,000, and James R. Keene, estimated at $20,000,000.

MILITANT IS KNOCKED OUT

Prison Commissioner of Scotland Punishes Woman Who Attacks Him.

Glasgow, Scotland.—Dr. James Devon, prison commissioner for Scotland, was attacked by an inmate militant suffragette armed with a dog whip, took the law in his own hands and knocked his assailant down with a well-aimed left-hand blow. The woman, whose identity was not disclosed, met the prison commissioner at the entrance to the Duke street prison and belabored him over the head and shoulders with her whip.

AT THE PORTSMOUTH THEATRE.

A fast dancing trio will be seen at the Portsmouth Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This is their first appearance in America, having just left the Alhambra, Leicester Square, London. They produce an old time English song and dance, also the latest London "Hesitation Waltz." One of the trio does a wooden shoe dance, and another has a special dance taught him by the late Harry Fragonot of Paris.

The act consists of fifteen minutes of nearly continuous dancing, and has come direct to the Portsmouth theatre from abroad.

Farnum and McIntire will be seen in a comedy sketch entitled "The Prima Donna and the Furniture Breaker." This act is one long laugh from start to finish. Mr. Farnum is a veteran comedian of thirty years' experience. The act comes here from New York City.

HUGE DIAMOND A HOODOO

The remarkable story about a 135 carat diamond that brought nothing but disaster and misery to everybody concerned ever since it was at one time buried from the mouth of a dying negro, will be told in the 21 page illustrated Magazine of next Sunday's New York World.

And there will be a score of other interesting magazine articles, including a plan to connect New York with Brooklyn by filling in the East river, etc., increasing the city by 50 square miles of new territory. "Pay" the great weekly joke book, is another Sunday World feature always worth mentioning. Order from your news-dealer in advance.

CURRENT OPINION

Courts Criticised and Abused for Administering Law as They Find it.

Speaking for the profession at large, I think the time has come when we should in no uncertain tone testify to our respect and confidence in the courts of this state, and especially in the court of appeals. The courts have been criticised and abused because they administered the law as they found it, the law which has been adopted and developed by the people themselves. For the last two years the people of this state and the people of the whole continent of America, from Canada to Patagonia, have been treated to criticisms of the decisions of the court of appeals of this state as though these decisions were the enunciation of some monstrous doctrine.

Let us take the Ives case, decided two years ago by the court of appeals and which raised such a storm of righteous indignation. There the court pointed out that the proposed employers' liability act violated certain provisions of the constitution which the people had adopted when this fact was called to the attention of the people there was no difficulty within two years in having the constitution so amended in a regular and proper way that the law which the people wanted could be passed and already such a law is on the statute books of the state. That any considerable portion of the people of the state should seriously propose to upset the system under which the laws have been administered since the state was first organized because they do not approve of this decision seems to be monstrous.—Presiding Justice Ingraham of Appellate Division, Supreme Court, New York State.

GOING ON WITH BUSINESS.

Green Acre Fellowship Trustees Will Take Advantage of Dissolution of Injunction.

That the trustees of the Green Acre Fellowship will now go forward with the business of the fellowship, following the dissolution of the injunction against them, is the statement of E. Lunt, chairman of the trustees.

The injunction was dissolved by Judge Spear of the Supreme Court of Maine at Augusta after a full hearing. It had been in force since last September, when it was granted in connection with an equity suit brought by Ellmore Moore, et al., attacking the validity of the 1913 annual meeting of the fellowship, at which these trustees were elected.

Mr. Lunt suggests a complete reorganization of the work of the fellowship with the object of its more definite establishment. Conferences are planned, he states, in accord with the original conception by Miss Farmer, and social service problems will be given due attention.—Boston Globe.

Boston and Maine Cannot Under Present Conditions Help Freight Handlers

Financial and other conditions on the Boston and Maine were cited in a communication of General Superintendent Tyler to the Boston and Maine Railroad Freight Handlers' Union in an endeavor to discourage all efforts for betterments by employees of the system.

The freight handlers' however, who have presented an identical request to all three roads, will insist upon some betterments. The men on all the roads are now paid $2.30 for a 10-hour workday. They ask for a 15 per cent increase, the nine-hour day, Saturday half-holidays and pay for legal holidays.

The principal complaint at the meeting of Union 5572 Sunday was that men were being laid off by the wholesale in the sheds of the company and that further layoffs were contemplated for today.

So short-handed are some of the sheds that it is alleged freight for such nearby places as Beverly lies in the sheds for days without being sent on its way. A special committee was appointed to confer with the management of the road today on the subject of layoffs and was given special power in the matter.

B. and A. Railroad Freight Handlers' Union 86, which also met Sunday, had a more favorable report from its committee which conferred with the management last week. Another conference will be held this week. Officers of the company were in the vicinity of the meeting hall during the session.

RAILROAD NOTES

A rumor is current to the effect that both the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific roads are bidding for the control of the stock of the Boston and Maine road to go into the hands of the trustees appointed by the attorney general under the agreement of dissolution between the department of Justice and the New York, New Haven and Hartford road.

It is also stated on apparently good authority that the coming of the Canadian Pacific is favored by the trustees.

Additional train service was added to the York Harbor and Beach railroad today. Conductor Frank H. Moore has been temporarily assigned to the new run.

It is expected that the case of the Lawrence Ice Company against the Boston and Maine railroad, an action to recover damages by fire, will be the first case to be tried on the coming in of the superior court at Concord today.

Services appropriate to Easter were held at the Second Methodist church at both the morning service and at vesper. In the morning the pastor, Rev. A. J. Hayes delivered an excellent discourse on "Implications of the Resurrection," and Mrs. Hayes sang the "Shepherd King." The auditorium had been most beautifully decorated under the direction of Mrs. Charles Pinkham, the color green, white and pink being used. A dove was suspended from the ceiling, a huge cross of Easter lilies, and palms, potted plants cut flowers and greenery were so arranged to produce a most artistic effect. Pink roses were also worn by the children taking part in the Easter concert at five o'clock. The following program was given at that hour:

or less cut about the face and hands, by the broken glass, and the contact with the wire. One of the women fainted. The party drove to Newington station, but decided to continue on to Dover for medical treatment. They did not give their names, and Station Agent Graham was unable to find out the extent of their injuries. A crew from the local office soon after cleared the tangle from the roadway.

In the lower harbor the gale was very severe, but there was very little shipping and no damage was done. At the life saving stations it was estimated that at times the wind reached a velocity of sixty miles an hour.

Automobile parties caught out on the road, had a disagreeable time, especially if they had their tops up.

East of this city there were two heavy showers and hail storms, and there was some hail felt here in the evening.

NAVAL OFFICERS WILL OBEY NEW ORDER

Washington, April 12.—There has been no drunkenness in the navy in recent years, said George Dewey, Admiral of the Navy, when asked Saturday about Secretary Daniels' order prohibiting the use of any intoxicating liquor on board ship or within any navy yard of any intoxicating liquor. The Admiral declined to voice any opinion as to the wisdom or necessity for the order, but said:

"The United States naval officers are the most obedient group of men on the face of the earth. Not a word may be expected from any of them on the abolition of the weakness, they will comply in silence."

"It should be understood that these men consider that such an order comes directly from the President, who also is their commander. And such an order will be obeyed without a whimper or a murmur of complaint. It will be observed as strictly as the Congressional act of 1892 against spirituous liquors on board ships was observed. At that time the sailors' pay was raised five cents a day, and that incident has been preserved in the poem written by Pay Inspector Schenck entitled: 'Purcell to Grog,' which is a little classic in its way. So far as I know it is the only poem he wrote. The reference to the increase in pay was contained in the verse read here:

"Jack's happy days will soon be gone,
To return again, oh, never."
For they raised his pay five cents a day.

But stopped his grog forever.
"This recalled the days when each enlisted man got his two 'tots' a day, and when, after a hard day's work, the man gave the welcome order to 'spike the main brace.' At 'tots' he explained was a small cup containing a half gill of whiskey and the regular sailor's allowance was two 'tots' a day. The order to 'spike the main brace' meant that all hands were allowed extra 'tots' and such orders usually were given after a hard battle with the elements.

"They drank it straight, too," said Admiral Dewey. "They cared little for the taste, but they got the effects. Remember that the men could not play cards in those days. With any Puritan training I thought the country was going to the dogs when playing cards were allowed to sailors. But I learned later that men had decided to play poker with dominoes, which they were allowed always.

"I remember, too, what a treat the officers considered card games, and how much of a battle there was to get into a white game when the word went around that a table was being made up. It does not seem to be generally understood that, until this new order of Secretary Daniels, beer and light wines were allowed enlisted men on special occasions.

"When they visited vessels of other nations, especially of the French navy, claret and beer were served. When they played host in return wines and beers were served. Now the only beverage they may offer is distilled water. So the invitations probably will have to be declined. Since the hospitality may not be returned in kind. Even in the old days men did not get notoriously drunk, and there has been no drunkenness in the navy in recent years. You have not heard and likely will not hear of a single officer in the American navy resigning because the wine mess is abolished."

Army and Navy Journal. Criticisms Daniels

"According to the Army and Navy Journal, there are two serious objections which suggest themselves to the order issued this week by the Secretary of the Navy abolishing the wine mess on board all ships and at stations in the United States Navy. In the first place, it is said, it is a wholly unnecessary and unwarrantable infringement on the personal liberty of navy officers. Next, it is based on an assumption concerning the drinking habits of our officers which are as unjust as they are untrue.

Navy officers of large experience are of the opinion that if an officer gets intoxicated on board ship it is nine-tenths of the time on whiskey, which he has smuggled on board, and which has been prohibited for fifty years. The effect of this order, these officers believe, will be to influence officers having the drinking habit to consume whiskey and cocaine on board and to go ashore and drink whiskey there instead of staying on board and taking a bottle of beer. The Journal then quotes from the Brooklyn Eagle an editorial to the effect that the efficiency of the navy depends on the self-respect and energy and quick initiation of our officers, and to assume that they cannot rule their own habits without restraint is to assume that they are unfit for the place they hold.

THE PERFECT DAY.

We spent a day together when the world was at its best,
And I gathered sweet wild roses that she wore upon her breast;
I forgot that there was trouble, she forgot that there was care,
And we talked about the weather, which was wonderful and fair.

We walked in shaded ways, where the birds were giving praise
For the glory that made perfect that most beautiful of days;
Oh, I heard her sweetly sigh, as we wandered, she and I,
Where no others were intruding and the leaves half hid the sky.

She was full of joy and sweet; here and there we found a seat,
Where the branches arched above us and seclusion was complete;
Still in fancy I can see how she turned to smile at me
As I spoke about the weather, praising it unstintingly.

Oh, we spent the day together when the world was full of song,
And she gladly claimed the graces that to youth alone belong;
There and there we strayed through places where we knew no one could spy,
And I think I might have kissed her, and I only dared to try.

WEAKNESS OF THE UNITED STATES IN COUNTRIES OF SOUTH AMERICA

John T. Lanfesty-Tells of American Commerce on the Southern Continent—European Nations, Germany, England and France, Now Get Lion's Share of the Business—Three Causes for This Are Named.

Chicago.—John T. Lanfesty has returned to Chicago from his tour of the principal states of South America, with numerous vivid stories of his experiences, as shown by his comments made to the London correspondent of The Daily News and reiterated here. He was deeply impressed by the mental alertness and the proud spirit of the peoples among whom he traveled. "It is high time," said Mr. Lanfesty, "that we people in the north disabused our minds of the foolish notion that we can treat South Americans with indifferent courtesy and have their friendship. They are wonderfully responsive to respectful and cordial treatment. I hope the American people will grasp this fact quickly, and I hope that in future no citizen of the United States, distinguished or undistinguished, will come to Central or South America and behave otherwise than he would behave if he were traveling among the most civilized and powerful people of the world."

"Though on that point, England has the same spirit in commerce that 'No Flint' Gen. Grey displayed in the conquest of the West Indies for England. British capitalists have scouts all over South America placing money with South American republics, and English contractors are on the ground to bring it back home for railroads, docks, harbors, battleships, explosives, guns and factories of all kinds. The Belgians, French and Germans are not far behind, 'gunshoeing' around for governments, corporations and individuals who need money and have security to offer for its use. In this way they remove resistance and make it easy for the manufacturers of their nations to sell the products they desire to move."

"Many Americans, looking around for openings without money, return home disappointed. North American salesmen in South America who speak Spanish are well satisfied with the success they are enjoying, and North American goods are given the preference more than ever before. There are three elements of weakness in the development of North American commerce. First, the absence of banking facilities under North American influence; second, ignorance of the geography of South America, and third, failure to properly fill orders and pack goods safely so as to insure them against the rough handling they receive in cargo steamers."

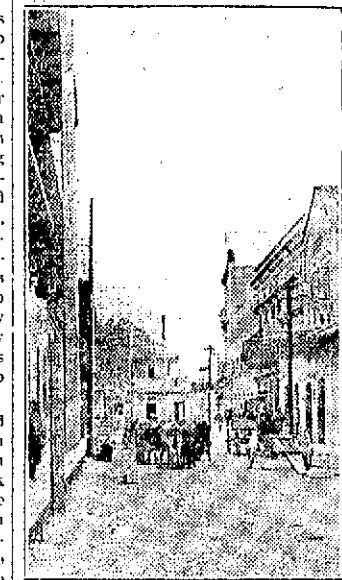

"There are abundant facilities for carrying freight safely, reasonably and promptly, if the same care and wisdom are used in addressing and packing shipments for South America as for domestic trade in the United States."

"The commercial instinct for merchandising is not very highly developed in South America, but the people there have much the same nature as elsewhere, and are reached to much the same manner, except that they are more sentimental and like to be made love to. The love making they succeeded in making ten heads of wheat grow where one grew before and by their labor have been able to utilize the land, hitherto nonproductive, controlled by the members of the Buenos Ayres Jockey club.

"Brazil is dominated commercially to a great extent, by Germany, who sit steady in the boat and daily enlarge their sphere of influence. They are ever ready on the ground with technical knowledge to produce what ever is wanted, as and when wanted packed to arrive in the units wanted with customs duty paid and bill rendered for delivery where and when wanted. This is one of the secrets of their success in Brazil, as they stand alone among nations for giving such complete service."

"South American republics are in much the same position as many unfortunate manufacturers in North America who are short of capital owing to the inability of their bank ers to see visions. It is said that, in North America there are only two leaders who are big enough to recognize good visions and capitalize them.

"A foreign consul remarked to me that Europe was supplying the money and North America was selling the goods. By that he meant to say that American influence and commerce were growing rapidly in South America."

"I had a great time wherever I went. I found the people, native and foreign, sympathetic and generous of time, effort and money. I must tell you about a thrilling ride I had in Peru. By the way, I found the railways of the west coast, though owned by the English, operated by Americans from the top to bottom. It seems to be clearly recognized that the operating genius of American railway men is unrivaled. At Lima, Peru, expressing to J. H. Prebau, manager of the Central railroad of Peru, desire to go up the mountain, my request was immediately granted. For seven hours we ascended the grade—a four per cent one—finally arriving at our destination, Rio Blanco, 12,300 feet up. The rain clouds were driving about us and the blue sky gleamed beautifully through them. The view was vast and superb. I was 'tobogganed' back to Lima, 75 miles. That is to say, a man named Kelley took me on a handcar and ran down the line right into the city by gravity. We made the return trip in two and a half hours. It was rather late when we started back and for half an hour at the end of the journey we ran in the dark. It was my most thrilling experience in South America."

"I do not feel that one can too strongly underline the fact that for most part the American diplomatic and consular representatives now in South America are rendering service of the highest possible value to the United States. Undoubtedly the foremost man among these able public servants is Ambassador E. V. Morgan at Rio de Janeiro. He is an ideal ambassador. His tact, intelligence, sympathy and intimate knowledge of all classes and conditions of society mark him off as a diplomatist of extraordinary ability. So popular is he both with the public and Brazilian government that when it came to be understood that he was at the point of retiring from the service, the Brazilian government specially requested the Washington government not to permit him to retire. I say this about Mr. Morgan and his conferees of both services because I realize how important it is that the United States should have in South America men, thoroughly initiated into the life of those countries. To change a man like Mr. Morgan at Rio de Janeiro, or our ambassadors at Montevideo, Buenos Ayres, Santiago or Valparaiso would be a calamity. They all have won a position that only tact and time give one and they have spent a great deal of money over and above the pitance allowed by our government."

appreciate most is a display of confidence in them manifested by loaning them money for the purpose of building up and developing the republic they live under and love.

"South Americans recognize that public and private debts figure conspicuously in the older and more successful countries, and they see no reason why the per capita public debt of their nation and the cities they live in should not equal that of England, Germany or the United States. Judging by extracts taken from our North American papers, there are not so many famous grafters and less newspaper publicity is given to grafting in South America than in the case with us."

"Spain and Portugal have sacked and sacked the South American republics for hundreds of years. Last year 147,000 emigrants from Spain moved into Argentina to till the soil thus atoning in part for the injury wrought by their ancestors to the South American countries. These poor people from Spain are more needed in Argentina than the rich, they have

Says He is Sorry if the Feelings of Anyone is Hurt But He Must Do His Duty

The item in Saturday's Herald concerning the poll tax question created considerable excitement. Evidently the new methods used by the collector are in some cases being misjudged. When questioned about the matter this morning Mr. Page replied:

"I do not care to say much of anything about the matter. The Herald, as well as the other papers, has always treated me very nicely, and I certainly appreciate any of the complimentary paragraphs that have appeared. I have no desire to offend the laws of the state or the rules of the post office department, and if any decision is made by the latter, covering the documents that have been issued by this office, I shall most surely abide by it."

"I have no doubt but that The Herald as well as other good citizens, desires the prompt payment of all taxes due this city. Neither have I any doubt but that everyone feels that the present collector is making every effort to accomplish such a result."

"The present law in regard to the collector of poll taxes is operative this year for the first time. It provides for the prompt collection of such taxes, and authorizes the collector to do certain things which may appear to the casual observer to be somewhat strenuous. The careful reader of the law, will however, no doubt understand its meaning. Poll taxes are due now on demand without previous notice, so that we are not even called upon to send the taxpayer a bill."

"This office, has however, seen fit to send all taxpayers a bill, and has also tried to explain in few words, just what might happen in case the law is not complied with. If anyone's feelings have been injured, we are really sorry. But we fail to see in what particular the document in question is improper."

Replying to further questions as to the complaint that certain persons have been presented with tax bills who did not think they should be taxed, he replied:

"You know the tax list comes to me from the assessors and is not made up by me. There certainly can be no kick from any one regarding the payment of a poll tax. Some of those apprehended say they pay elsewhere. If there is any legal reason for their paying elsewhere, no doubt the tax in this city will be abated, which is a matter to be settled with the local board of assessors."

"As to the men in Uncle Sam's service, if they are here on April first it looks as though they cannot escape the law. If it conflicts with the U. S. law we will have to settle it in some way."

"I must collect the taxes as ordered; that is my duty and I hope all citizens will assist."

The Herald Hears

That a well known horseman on Penhallow street is some dentist.
That the boys say he certainly is a wonder at dragging out molars.

That Middle street unless repaired will cause nervous prostration to some of the auto parties that pass along that thoroughfare the coming summer.

That the weatherman who predicted rain for Easter, took it all out in wind.

That the wind on Sunday caused the complete disappearance of a pile of sand on the dock of O. W. Ham on New Vaughan street.

That a Penhallow street business man is now satisfied that he cannot beat the world playing cards.

That as a result of a wild bet on three games with his next door neighbor he now believes that he has something to learn about cards.

That he was a good loser and did a nice job washing up a floor to square himself in the defeat.

That the gale damaged one of the gates at the Boston and Maine crossing on Bartlett street on Sunday.

That Portsmouth church choirs furnished some excellent programs on Easter Sunday.

That the music rendered here was as good as any house of worship for this feast.

That a motor dory upside down drifted ashore on Noble's Island during the gale on Sunday.

That the Boston and Maine will strengthen the Dover Point bridge so that larger locomotives can be run over the structure.

That Tax Collector Page says he wants the money.

That a good many poll tax payers settled up before the bills came out.

That he is evidently in for a game of tag in landing some of his list.

That the office of the Langdon Hotel has been much improved in the new flooring.

That the mayor has received several applications for the job of catching dogs.

That Miss Lillian Fraser, superintendent of the Memorial hospital, North Conway, last week entered six candidates for the nurses' examination held at Concord.
